TEN CENTS PER WEEK

THEY ARE OFF AT THE FAIR GROUNDS THIS AFTERNOON IN GREATEST RACING MEET EVER HELD IN THIS SECTION OF THE COUNTRY

First Event Starts at 2 O'clock and Preparations are All Made.

HORSE SHOW ON TONIGHT

Grand Parade in Arena at 7:30 O'clock—Musical Drill Follows.

MANY VISITORS ARE HERE

They're off at Edgewood track. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the big races started with a 2:25 trot for a $400 purse. A splendid crowd of race horse enthusiasts are present at the opening and every prediction for a most successful meet bids fair to be borne out by the results.

A number of horses arrived yesterday, some of them unexpected, and every stall is filled at the stables today and of the score of horsemen here all claim to have strings of winners and expect to take down a share of the big purses that have been hung up.

The track, weather and conditions generally are all that could be desired and so careful have all arrangements been made that not a single hitch can occur in the program for the week. All the entries are in first-class condition, and although some of them have been on the track for months, they are not run down by any means and during the exercise runs and trots of yesterday and today the showing was so favorable that there are nearly all favorites with some of the wise ones, and have been picked for winners in the events in which they are entered.

In the Show Ring.

In the show ring the horses to be entered are considered far superior to a majority of the stock of the two shows already held. Here, too, the same careful preparation has been made and at the rehearsal last night everything moved off as smoothly as though the horses had been shown on the same grounds every day for six weeks. The rehearsal of the musical drill was exceptionally good and the drill is sure to please the patrons of the show tonight. The drill with the other events tonight will make the opening night one of the best of the show, and a large crowd is expected to be out.

In order to allow the officials and clerks an opportunity to attend the show and races all the banks of the city will close their doors promptly at 2 o'clock every afternoon this week. Many of the wholesale houses will also close early.

The Metropolitan and Paducah bands which have been consolidated for the occasion, will furnish the music for the show and races. The bands have been rehearsing for several nights and today gave concerts on several different street corners downtown. The music rendered evoked much favorable comment from those who heard it. The horses and riders that are to take part in the musical drill have been given several rehearsals with the band.

The Musical Drill.

Participants in the musical drill at the horse show were announced this morning by Dr. J. V. Voris, the leader of the maneuvers. The personnel will be: O. L. Gregory, Clyde Hill, Jo Pettit, George Holliday, James Lang, B. J. Billings, Charles Kopf, Mr. Evans, A. B. Smith, Richard Harris, Robert Mitchell, Guy Lockwood, Joe Fisher, Joe Roof, James Langstaff, Dr. G. B. Froage, Richard Scott, Frank Davis and John Brooks.

Many Visitors Arrive.

Trains brought many strangers to the city today and farmers were coming in with their families in great numbers, making it resemble a circus day.

Hotels report many guests for the horse show and races, sportsmen coming from many towns in several states. So well have the races and horse show been advertised that drummers working in all nearby states, have been quizzed time and time again about the big events.

"You do not know how much interest has been aroused in this end of the state," declared a medicine drummer. "I work small towns principally, and have been asked hundreds of questions about the races and horse show, but particularly about the races. This is the first time real sport of this class has been offered in Paducah, and the biggest crowd ever assembled here for races will doubtless

At Metropolis and Brookport.

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Sept. 24. (Special.)—At the southern Illinois conference of the Methodist Episcopal church (north), which has been in session here the last week and adjourned today, the Rev. D. W. Adams, of Metropolis, was returned to his charge

CAPT. BUCK SMITH USED HIS MUSCLES TO QUELL SHOOTER

Everybody around here knows that Capt. J. B. (Buck) Smith, of the Nellie, is not a coward, but a fellow at Mound City, Ill. It is said, was given a startling demonstration of the captain's prowess Saturday night, when the captain routed the fellow with his fist, after the fellow had shot three times at the captain. According to the story received here, when Captain Smith walked ashore he was confronted by the man, who accused Captain Smith of interfering in some family disturbances. Before Captain Smith realized how serious matters were, it is said his assailant began shooting. Captain Smith was 30 feet away at the time and walked rapidly toward the revolver. The third shot was fired when Captain Smith was about five feet from the muzzle of the revolver, but all the shots went wild. Then Captain Smith sailed in with his fists and pounded his assailant until the man cried for mercy and promised to be good.

Popular River Clerk Weds.

Surprise shone in the eyes of everybody present, when James Robertson, clerk of the Clyde, walked into the lobby of the New Richmond House this morning with a handsome young lady holding his arm, as if she had a right to. He introduced his companion to Colonel Bud Dale as Mrs. James Robertson, nee Miss Jimmie Evans, of Bear Springs, Tenn. Without telling his friends of his intention Clerk Robertson repaired to the home of his bride and was married while the boat lay at the landing. Their appearance on board was the first intimation to the crew of the nuptials. Clerk Robertson, who ran for years on the Dick Fowler, is receiving congratulations today.

be on hand, judging from the interest taken."

A Few Bad Characters.

The advent of sharks and gamblers mark the fall races and horse show, but Chief of Police Collins will not be caught napping. "There are a few sharks and gamblers here," stated the chief, "but we have an eye out, and if anything wrong is pulled off or attempted, we can lay our hands on the persons responsible. We have been preparing for the advent of sharks, and were never better prepared to handle them."

NO HOUSE FOR SEXTON

Although the present building used for a home by the sexton of Oak Grove cemetery is in unsafe condition, a new one will probably not be built until after appropriations are made for city budget next year. The question of building a new house for the sexton has been under consideration by the general council for several months and at the last session the cemetery committee was ordered to let the contract for a house to be built of brick to cost $2,800. Before the bids were opened and the contract let the finance committee informed the committee that the money to pay for the work was not available, so the matter has been deferred indefinitely. It is said that the present house is in such a bad shape that Mr. Mattison, the sexton, cannot stay in it through the winter.

Stuyvesant Fish Declares Illinois Central Railroad is Under Control of Harriman's Union Pacific Line

Former President Submits Report to Roosevelt and Charges That Accounts of Railroad are Being Padded to Make Good Showing For Management.

New York, Sept. 24.—A mysterious visit made by Stuyvesant Fish to Oyster Bay was given great significance today by a sensational statement issued by Mr. Fish to the stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad company.

In this statement Mr. Fish made direct charges that E. H. Harriman, President James T. Harahan, Robert Walter Goellet and others are making extraordinary efforts to throw the Illinois Central into the control of the Union Pacific. Mr. Fish makes an urgent plea to the stockholders for proxies so that he may combat the scheme at the next meeting of the directors. He gives facts and figures to back up a startling exposure of how the Union Pacific has been getting its clutches on Illinois Central.

It would appear that Mr. Fish's visit was to place in the possession of the president evidence of infractions of the interstate commerce law by Mr. Harriman.

The statement by Fish throws light on the clashes in the Illinois Central board meetings, one of which resulted in Mr. Fish and Mr. Harahan coming to blows.

At the forthcoming election four directors are to be chosen, three of them to succeed John Jacob Astor, Stuyvesant Fish and Edward H. Harriman and one to fill a vacancy for a term of one year.

"For some time past there has been a persistent effort to place the control of your corporation in the

S.S.S. RIDES THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

Malaria is an atmospheric poison which we unconsciously breathe into our system. The blood in its constant passage through the lungs absorbs the germs, and they destroy the rich, red corpuscles of this vital fluid and reduce it to such a weak, watery condition that it is unable to properly nourish the system, and disease gets a foothold. Then the symptoms of Malaria, such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, and perhaps chills and fever show that the trouble is affecting every part of the body. Malaria also affects the liver, producing a chronic state of biliousness, and often a long spell of fever follows when the blood becomes fully contaminated with the poison. Chronic Sores and Ulcers, boils, aches and pains, and skin affections of various kinds often result from this insidious disease if the poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood in sufficient quantities. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great remedy goes down into the blood and drives out all germs, microbes and poisons, and permanently cures Malaria. S. S. S. not only cleanses the blood of the cause, but furnishes it with the healthful properties it needs, so that instead of a weak, germ-infected stream, spreading disease throughout the system, it becomes a rich, red fluid, nourishing the body and enabling it to resist disease. S. S. S. is also the greatest of all tonics, and builds up and invigorates the entire system while ridding the blood of the germs of Malaria. Persons who are suffering from Malaria will be pleased with the prompt and pleasant results produced by the use of S. S. S., and can take it with confidence because it is an absolutely safe medicine, being free from harmful minerals of any kind. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Great Rubie Play.
There have been all kinds of "rube" plays—some good and some bad, but "Si Holler," which will be the attraction of the night of Thursday, September 26, is said to be the best of them all. The play is a happy blending of "rural" comedy and strenuous life in the slums of New York. This gives a chance for a great diversity of characters and the author has not overlooked his opportunity. Several novel scenes are introduced. Among them are the following: "Sailors' Roost," lodging house, Red Dog saloon and the old Maine homestead.

The Phantom Detective.
Hypnotism plays a unique part in that musical melodrama, "The Phantom Detective," a part that has caused endless discussion by the believers or incredulous in the wonderful occult art. There are many who claim that no person under the influence can do wrong; others claim they can, and the villain in "The Phantom Detective" supplies an endless topic of discussion by exposing in a complete manner many of the theories held for and against hypnotic influence. The melodrama is sensational to a degree of constant thrills and surprises; seldom a minute but the unexpected happens; the dialogue is snappy, full of action, comedy and effect. Thirty people are in the cast; a chorus of exceptional talent and good looks; the American Newsboys' quartet; a cage of real lions and two carloads of special scenery, electrical

Grover Land's Record.

Grover Land, the Frankfort boy, who claims Paducah his home, because he was given his first trial in Paducah in baseball and made good, later graduating to the big leagues, will come back to spend the winter here. The information was received this morning in a letter received by Harry Lloyd, formerly manager of the Paducah Kitty league team. "Tell all the boys to look out for me," Land stated, "for I am coming. I have been homesick for Paducah for some time, and want to come back and mingle with the people who were so good to me. Paducah is the best town in the United States, if it is not as big as some of them. The people make the town, and while I have been treated nicely in the American association towns and in other towns where I visited during my Kitty league servitude, I never felt at home so much as I did in 'Old Paducah'."

Land said nothing about his trial on the stage. He was touted as a sure comer in the histrionic, but it is evident that he did not like the life, now that he intends coming back to Paducah and throwing up the stage for good.

Land batted .268 in the American association, and did a great deal of catching for the Toledo team this season. He has been batting left-handed, and several times won games with timely hits. He has won a permanent home in the American association, and it is said that American and National league teams are watching him with the view of drafting and giving him a trial in the fastest company.

STANDARD OWNS TIDEWATER CO.

Fact Disclosed at Hearing in Oil Trust case.

John D. Archbold Issues Statement Denying Story of Reorganization.

IS WHOLLY UNAUTHORIZED.

New York, Sept. 24.—The ways and means by which the Tidewater Pipe company, of Pennsylvania came under the virtual control of the Standard Oil company were unfolded in the hearing of the government's suit against the oil combine. The affairs of Tidewater were disclosed by the testimony of Robert Benson, president of the company, and from the Massachusetts records and contracts. The Standard was shown to own at present 31 per cent of Tidewater stock and by an agreement entered into in 1883 between the two companies, the oil business was divided in such proportion that Tidewater did 11 1/2 per cent and the Standard 88 1/2 per cent. President Benson testified that since the agreement in 1883, the business of neither the Tidewater Pipe company nor the present company, the Tidewater Oil company, had materially increased.

Mr. Benson also gave testimony that 95 per cent of the oil refined by the Tidewater company under the existing contracts with the Standard, 77 per cent was sold to the Standard and the remainder was sold in a territory in which the Standard was not interested. Of the remaining 5 per cent refined for domestic purposes, Standard Oil secured 97 per cent.

Denies Statement.
New York, Sept. 24.—John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company, was prompt in issuing today an authoritative denial of a statement made earlier in the day on apparently creditable authority, that the Standard Oil company contemplated a reorganization of its affairs. Mr. Archbold said: "The published statement to the effect that the Standard Oil company is about to confer as to changing its name, extending its capitalization, and so forth, is unauthorized and untrue."

Supersedes Bonds for Standard.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—William Rockefeller and John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company of New York, have been accepted by the United States circuit court as sureties on two bonds of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, given on the supersedeas pending the appeal of the company from the recent fine imposed by Judge Landis. The two bonds aggregate $6,000,000.

Mayfield, Ky., Sept. 24.—W. H. Adams, of near Pottsville, has a tobacco plant with 50 leaves on it. They are not so large as the leaves grown by his neighbor, Matt Rogers, but is something out of the ordinary for a plant to have 50 leaves on it.

SUPT. EGAN BUSY IN YARDS AGAIN

Illinois Central Official is Straightening Tangle.

Coal Bin With Mechanical Hoist Will Be Installed Here Without Any Doubt.

GOSSIP OF THE RAILROADS.

Bad order cars are causing Illinois Central yard men much trouble, and are largely responsible for the congested condition of freight. This morning trains had to be "sawed" in many instances to get by solidly filled passing tracks. The yards were blocked and Superintendent A. H. Egan was out again with coat and vest off working like a beaver to relieve conditions.

New Cradle Completed.

This morning the new cradle just finished was put into commission at the Illinois Central incline at the foot of Campbell street. The old cradle was built in 1898, and had recently become unsafe. Mr. W. C. Wagener, supervisor of bridges and buildings of the Louisville division of the road is here and superintended the work. Mr. Wagener stated in regard to the coal bin to be built here: "The report that the road will use steam hoists and not build the coal bin is erroneous, and was not given out from an authentic source. The road will build the bin, and work will begin within the next month. It is to be a mechanical bin, all hoisting and discharging being done by machinery. The location is to be between Tennessee street and the Illinois Central shops."

Wednesday work on the car track shed for the Bennett gang will begin, and Mr. Wagener will start the work. All material has been received, and the shed will be completed before winter sets in.

The derailment of a freight car on Muldraugh's Hill near Louisville, caused a delay of over three hours to the fast Illinois Central passenger train, No. 104, from Louisville to Memphis, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. James McLaughlin, chief gardener of the N. C. & St. L., will leave tomorrow for St. Louis and a trip north to inspect shrubs, trees and flowers he cannot procure here. He wishes to secure specimens to bring here and plant on his division next summer. He will be gone 15 days and hopes to be able to introduce, as a result of his trip, many new kinds of trees and shrubs.

H. W. Forman, train rule examiner of the N. C. & St. L., arrived in Paducah yesterday afternoon on a special train from Nashville. His train was pulled by engine 47, and was composed of private cars, No. 209 and 29. He was accompanied by dispatchers of the division. This morning the train was sent out again, and Paducah dispatchers went out with it. It is seldom that special trains are run on the N. C. & St. L. and the two car extra caused some little excitement at the station when it whizzed past a few minutes in advance of the regular morning train.

THE OLD TOW PATH ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

"There is no one now living who remembers when the old tow path on the west bank of the Mississippi was almost as much of an institution as a public highway is nowadays," said an old "river man" the other day, when talking over what now seem like the ancient days of the Mississippi valley.

"The tow path was for the use of keel boatmen, who, when ascending the river, dragged their craft by means of a rope, at which everybody pulled except one or two men, who stayed on board, and with long poles kept the boat from the bank and off the bars and rocks. From Cairo to St. Louis the tow path was generally on the west bank of the river. At many places, however, there were points round which the current was so strong that it was impossible to draw the boat; then everybody got aboard, and with the sweeps of oars rowed the boat over to the opposite shore, generally landing a quarter to half a mile below the starting point. Then the towing began again and continued up to the next point, when another crossing was made, and so on from the mouth of the Ohio to the mouth of the Mississippi.

"The path itself didn't amount to very much. The rocks were partly removed, trees were cut down where they were likely to be in the way of the tow rope, and in some places a little grading was done.

"A proposition was once made that the government should go to work and grade a regular path above high-water mark for the use of the boatmen, but they objected at once. They didn't want a smooth path. They wanted rocks to brace their feet against and stumps for their rope when they got tired and needed a smoke, so the improvement project was given up.

"The last use of the tow path was between 1820 and 1822 or 1823. The first steamboat from the Ohio arrived in 1817. Two years later came the first from New Orleans, and after that steamboats came so thick and fast that the keel boats were put out of business. The tow path was forgotten, until in the 50s the Iron Mountain Railroad company proposed to run its line along the river bank, when some people who objected to the railroad rose up and made the claim that the railroad company was infringing on the tow path, which the government had guaranteed to the river men forever. But their claim was so much laughed at that they did not have the nerve to go into court with it, so the tow path, legally, as well as actually, went out of existence."—Globe-Democrat.

TERRIBLE THINGS WERE PREDICTED

Governor Beckham and Ollie James Stir Up Bones.

Former Said Conditions Are Similar to Those Before Bradley's Election.

THE SPEECHES AT MURRAY.

(Staff Correspondence.)

Murray, Ky., Sept. 24.—"Hell for Sartin," if the Republicans should win next November, was the central theme in each of the speeches made here yesterday by Governor J. C. W. Beckham and Congressman Ollie James. The various direful, calamitous and stupendous results that would follow Democratic defeat were delineated by the two orators in sepulchral tones, though the only shivers that ran down the spines of their auditors were the bursts of applause when Ollie cracked a joke. Naturally the crowd applauded when each of the speakers closed.

Those persons who heard Governor Beckham speak in the Democratic primary last fall, met an old friend in the speech he delivered here yesterday. Fortuitous events gave the speakers a good reception as John Robinson's circus, county court day and a meeting of the Dark Tobacco Growers' association were coincident, drawing a large crowd. The roomy main tent of the circus was available, through the courtesy of the circus management, for the speaking. Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons heard Governor Beckham and Congressman James.

Governor Beckham, after being introduced by State Senator Conn Linn, spoke for an hour in defense of his own administration, in a general denial of all the allegations of mismanagement made by the Republican candidates. In an exhaustive review of the Goebel assassination, and in a specific reply to some of the statements made here last week by Judge James Breathitt, Republican candidate for attorney general. The most significant assertion in the governor's speech was when he declared that conditions now are identical with the political conditions when the Republicans were successful under Bradley.

Congressman James followed Governor Beckham with a thirty minutes' speech, in which he touched on national affairs in the hands of the Republican party, in an earnest appeal for the Democratic voters to stand by the ticket this fall and closed with an eulogy on W. J. Bryan. The attention accorded both speakers was interested.

Attended the Circus. Ample time was had after the speaking for the candidates to catch a train for Paducah, but the party, including General Percy Haly, newspaper men and local politicians, attended the circus in the afternoon as the guests of the circus management. The day throughout was not marred by any untoward incident.

The speaking began at 10 o'clock. Seats directly in front of the improvised speakers' stand were occupied, but the crowd in other directions left their seats in order to hear, crowding around the stand. Governor Beckham goes before the people of Kentucky on his record. He advised his audience to ignore party lines and decide the merits of the present contest without regard to party affiliations, but warned them against being led away by false prophets.

Republican success when Governor Bradley was elected, was won, Governor Beckham declared, on exactly the same grounds that the present campaign is being conducted by the leaders of that party. He said that charges of corrupt and dishonest management of state affairs were charged then, as now; and that he hoped that the present charges would not turn the people away from the party which, he declared, had given the state every good thing it had ever received. Orators of the Republican party in that campaign he charged followed a principle which he believed was being followed this year; that lies about the Democratic administration could be told effectively to any one hundred voters, out of which perhaps only fifty would ever learn the truth. In this it could be thought that Governor Beckham held the idea that the Democratic speakers would reach only fifty per cent of the number reached by the Republican speakers, and that the remaining half would go to the polls with a Republican view of the Democratic administration.

Bradley's administration brought nothing but disaster on the state, according to Governor Beckham's statements, and he indicated that the state was not financially better off when Governor Bradley went out of office, than it was when he assumed control. Judge Breathitt in his speech here had read statistics from the auditor's reports showing the reverse of this statement to be true. Among the allegations made by Governor Beckham against the Bradley administration, he said that the militia was employed then to elect a Republican senator. It is expected to create interest here when Mr. Bradley takes the stump in defense of his own administration, as it is rumored he will.

The Goebel Case.

Opening with a depreciation of the necessity of mentioning the Goebel assassination at all, Governor Beckham dwelt at length on this period in Kentucky history, the use of which as campaign material Judge Breathitt both in Murray and Mayfield speeches had won approval in condemning. Governor Beckham said Kentucky should not have a Republican Governor in order that vicious elements could be kept down. While his speech throughout was condemnatory of Republican rule under Bradley, he used few specific figures to prove his assertions.

Taxation, so effectively handled by Judge Breathitt, to the discomfiture of the administration, received a passing treatment from Governor Beckham and he admitted that most of the state debts had been paid with the $1,300,000 received from the national government. The people, he said, had not been called on for one dollar more of taxes to pay for the manifold benefits of the Democratic administration, through an increase in the tax rate, but he did not deny that the revenue to the state had been increased vastly by manipulations of property assessments, as charged by Judge Breathitt.

For his administration he asked the credit of a lengthened school term, the increase in the per capita of the school fund, for cheaper school books, considerate treatment of Confederate veterans, for the new capitol, and closed with the statement that no corruption in handling of state money could be shown during his terms.

Republican thunder against his management was limited, Governor Beckham declared, to four charges. First, extravagance in building the capitol; second, extravagance in printing and law fees; third, that Democratic speakers were evading the temperance question; fourth, the dog law. All of these charges were handled by Governor Beckham specifically. He charged that Augustus E. Willson, Republican candidate for governor, and the other state Republican candidates were making utterly false statements in all their speeches. Judge Breathitt's condemnation of the confiscatory inheritance tax was answered and denied. Mr. Willson, he believed, was ambitious in his advocacy of the county unit law, having one set of sentiments for dry districts and another set for the wet districts; nor did he believe that Mr. Willson is sincere in his professions on Sunday laws. With a reversion to the Goebel assassination and a declaration that Republican success this year meant similar occurrences, he closed his hour's address.

Ollie James.

Congressman James jumped with vim into his speech, reminding the farmers of what he had done for them in fighting the tobacco trust. None but Democratic measures had ever done the country any good, he declared, and asserted that Roosevelt was popular only in so far as he had stolen Mr. Bryan's political principles. In state affairs he, too, brought out Mr. Goebel's ghost and held it up as a rebuke to any Democrats who might be dissatisfied with the machine. Mr. James declared for Sunday laws, the county unit bill, and eulogized the Democratic candidates. Willson, he said, was really for booze, whatever professions he might make; and he, too, warned the crowd of the appalling things that would happen in the event of Republican success. Neither Governor Beckham nor Congressman James breathed a word about the Democratic machine. When Congressman James got on Bryan, he went to the limit of oratorical heights to express his admiration. This outburst closed his speech and the crowd applauded, for they like Ollie.

Governor Beckham is speaking in Benton today and will spend the next week in west Kentucky. Congressman James did not go to Benton today, and General Percy Haly will return to Frankfort tonight. He is down in the First district on a scouting trip.

BOILER BLOWS UP FOUR ARE KILLED

Terrible Accident on Pennsy
at Alliance, Ohio.

Head-on Collision, on M., K. & T.
Causes Death of Two Railroad Men Instantly.

MISTAKE IN THEIR ORDERS.

Alliance, O., Sept. 24.—While a west bound Pennsylvania freight train in charge of Conductor George Rockhill and Flagman C. E. Crum, of this city, Engineer F. H. Bray, of Beaver Falls, Penn., and Fireman Riffle, of Wooster, was taking a siding at Burton City yesterday, the boiler of the engine exploded without warning. Rockhill and Crum were killed outright, while Bray and Riffle were frightfully scalded and cannot possibly recover. The force of the explosion lifted the locomotive from its trucks, sent it into the air for 100 feet and dropped it on end in a field adjoining, where it tore a great hole in the ground. The train continued moving until the brakes were applied and brought it to a stop.

Head-on Collision.

Moberly, Mo., Sept. 24.—Two engineers, a fireman and a brakeman were killed at 7 o'clock this morning in a head-on collision between freight trains on the M., K. & T. railroad a mile and a half east of here at a point known as Pickledish.

The wreck, it is said, was due to a misunderstanding of orders by the operators at Paris, Mo. All of the men killed lived at Hannibal. The dead are Engineers Bledsoe and Winckler of Hannibal, Mo.; Charles Wilkerson, brakeman, and Fireman Schroeder, of New Franklin, Mo.

Conductor Curran and Brakeman Gibson, of New Franklin, were seriously hurt.

That Is the Charge Made Against Auditor Hager By Eastern Kentuckians.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 24.—"When Auditor Hager made his trip through southeastern Kentucky," said a gentleman in a position to know what he is talking about here today, "he had with him a clerk from the auditor's office, whose home is at Johnson county, and whose mission on the trip was a mystery."

"This clerk was a very busy man at many points on the route, and in many cases he was seen talking in earnest conversation with the relatives of certain convicts now in the penitentiary. This fact led some to whisper it about that he was Hager's missionary making promises to the relatives of men in the penitentiary."

"Hager was accused of having a pardon-missionary along, but he denied the allegation. The auditor's clerk made frequent inquiries for relatives of convicts, and he found plenty of them."

COLE'S HOT BLAST

Wonderful Heater and Fuel Saver

For Soft Coal, Lignite or Hard Coal

Cost of Stove Saved in Fuel

Shows Stove
Burning
Soft Coal

As you know one-half of soft coal is gas—the entire gas supply for many cities and towns being made from the same kind of soft coal you are using. The extent of unburned gases in hard coal is shown by opening the magazine cover of a base burner when the extra oxygen supplied fills the entire stove with flaming gas. Other stoves allow this gas, which is the best part of the coal, also a large part of the heat, to pass up the chimney. This waste will average from $10.00 to $50.00 a year for every family and millions of dollars in fuel are thus wasted annually.

The Original Cole's Hot Blast Stove

Saves All Wasted with Other Stoves

Cole's Original Hot Blast, by means of the Patented Hot Blast draft used in connection with other patented features, distills this gas from the upper surface of the coal, utilizing it as a heat producer along with the fixed carbon or coke in the coal.

On account of the patented air tight and gas tight construction giving perfect control over the drafts, it also saves the heat usually wasted up the chimney.

$5.00 worth of hard coal, soft coal or lignite, or a $1.50 ton of slack or coal siftings is thus made to do the work of twice the amount of fuel in other stoves and the cost of the stove is more than saved in fuel each winter. $7.50 worth of slack will heat your house all winter, five tons at $1.50 a ton does the work.

Build only One Fire a Winter

Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night, and when the draft is opened in the morning will burn two or three hours with the hard coal or soft coal put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, kindling fires is dispensed with, and the rooms are kept at an even temperature all the time.

Read the Guarantee. We are the exclusive agents for Cole's Original Hot Blast and sell it on the accompanying guarantee which cannot be made on any other heating stove in the world. If you want to save half your fuel bill and would enjoy the luxury of getting up in a warm house on cold winter mornings without kindling fires, buy Cole's Original Hot Blast now.

Avoid Imitations

Imitations of this Original Hot Blast are many. None of them has the absolutely air-tight and gas-tight construction throughout which Cole's Hot Blast has by reason of its numerous patents. A Patented Steel Collar connects the elbow draft to the stove body and cannot open by action of the fiercest heat. The Patented Compound Hinge on the lower draft cannot warp, and the draft door closes air-tight by its own weight. The guaranteed Smoke-proof Feed Door prevents smoke, dust or gas escaping when fuel is put in the stove.

Imitations soon open seams and cracks which spoil them for keeping fire and cause the gas half of the coal and much of the heat to escape up the chimney.

See the name "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago" on the feed door of our stove. None genuine without it. Ask to see the patented dustless ash cover for removing ashes. Our method is the only clean way.

FOURTH CLASS

POSTMASTERS ARE WORRYING
THE DEPARTMENT.

Kentuckians Do Not Appear To Haver
After Government Position
at the Salary Paid.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The post-office department is having difficulty in inducing Kentuckians to act as postmasters of fourth class postoffices in the state. This reluctance on the part of the patriotic residents of the Bluegrass state to serve their country is said to be due to a variety of reasons. One is that just now all postmasters of every class in the country have to weigh the mails and segregate them into different classes, so that they can report to the department the exact number of pounds of letters, merchandise, newspapers and other mail matter which pass through their offices. This is a troublesome work, and requires more time and attention than many postmasters in small communities care to devote to the postal business.

Another reason is that the force of postoffice inspectors have been especially active of late in examining into the conduct of postmasters of the fourth class, particularly. The inspectors are said to be applying the postal regulations rigidly in all cases where those regulations are being departed from. Several arrests of postmasters have been made for alleged technical violation of the department's rules, which occurred through the ignorance of the postmasters concerned. Many of the officials in small postoffices, it is said, have little opportunity to familiarize themselves with the department's regulations, and even those who do so, have a hard time keeping up with the almost daily changes in those regulations promulgated by the postmaster general.

The lot of a fourth class postmaster, so far as his relations with the federal government are concerned, is not very enviable. His is an ungrateful task at best. The amount he receives for looking after Uncle Sam's mails is mere pittance and he is obliged to

WOMAN IN CASE

YOUNG OPERATOR SHOT BY MARRIED MAN AT COVINGTON.

Physicians Say H. B. Reeves Will Recover From Pistol Wounds
—Works in Fulton.

Fulton, Ky., Sept. 24.—H. B. Reeves, a very pleasant and popular young gentleman, employed as telegrapher, in the Illinois Central railway office here, went to Covington yesterday to visit his parents. As he stepped from the train at that place, he was approached by Sidney Curry, a married man, and resident of Covington, and shot through the left breast. The cause of the sad tragedy is unknown, but it is reported there is a woman in the case. Young Reeves was originally from Henning, Tenn., moving from there to Covington, Tenn., where he accepted a position with the Illinois Central railroad company. He remained at Covington for about three years, until recently he accepted a promotion and came to Fulton where he has been quite a favorite among his associates here. Physicians who attended young Reeves say he will probably recover.

The state railroad commission is something of a revenue producer when it can find ten million dollars' worth of property unassessed that it can attend to. Only two and a half million of this, it is said, comes of the reassessment under the "localized" plan. And the back tax assessors may have a whack at it yet.—Knoxville Journal and Tribune.

It doesn't do a fellow much good to inherit money unless he inherits brains with it.

BACK TO COUNTY JAIL GOES ELIZA SWEENEY.

After a period of sobriety lasting several weeks, Mrs. Eliza Sweeney, who has the record for long jail terms, was caught napping again yesterday afternoon late at Fifth and Trimble streets, and given a berth in the city lockup until this morning when her name was entered on police court docket. "Fifty days in county jail," pronounced Judge Cross, "and you need not get out the patrol wagon. I will just send Mrs. Sweeney to jail with her conscience as her escort," and he did. Mrs. Sweeney pinned her bonnet a little tighter, gathered her skirts, and started for the jail, a route she could follow with her eyes shut.

In these later days of strife and to few of us. His record is unique in the annals of the country. Once elected president he was denied the endorsement of his second term at the end of his first. But once more taken up by his party, he was again elected after four years retirement, only to be repudiated by his own party leaders, whose inconsistency and dishonesty, regarding the tariff, wrecked

the organization. He stood out against the heresies of Bryanism, and now after time has healed the sores of disappointment, the sage of Princeton has assumed the position, which his public service merits, and he will pass away when his time comes, honored by a whole nation.
May he be spared in the possession and use of his faculties for many a day.

THE COMMON SENSE OF IT.

While enjoying the royal sport afforded at the fair grounds and in the Wallace park arena, let us not forget that a prominent government official will speak on immigration at Wallace park casino. We owe it to ourselves to accord him a welcome in numbers.

Whether one is in favor of immigration or opposed to it, makes no difference. If he is actively on either side he should attend the convention and acquaint himself with the facts presented by Mr. Powderly. His mind may be changed by the facts, or his opinion may be strengthened. We have heard much random talk on the subject. Mr. Powderly is a man, whose business it is to keep in his possession the facts, all the facts and nothing but the facts concerning immigration. He will not go outside the facts in this talk. Whether or not the people of McCracken county, Kentucky, want or wish immigration is nothing to him. If any citizen takes no interest in the western Kentucky immigration movement, if he will attend the convention, he may find his interest aroused for or against it. At this convention it should be decided once for all, whether or not we desire German and Austrian immigration. If we do, we should all get together on a systematic plan for promoting it and that without delay. If we are opposed to it, we should kill the movement at one fell stroke this week.

Out in Idaho United States Senator Borah is being tried for conspiracy to defraud the government. Extradition treaties deprived thieves of asylum until the senate
was the last refuge for the big ones.
Now that the department of justice has invaded the sacred precincts of the national forum, there is little hope left in anything but honesty.

It is rumored that former Chinese Minister Wu Ting Fang is likely to return to Washington. Perhaps, Minister Wu recalls a question he forgot to ask.

If Mr. Bryan, when he comes to Paducah, declares that Roosevelt
"stole his thunder" and is doing what Bryan promised to do if elected, the people of Paducah will have the right to consider such a declaration an endorsement of Roosevelt's course and policy.

James P. Smith was reared in Paducah. His business interests are interwoven with the destiny of Paducah. He has no political ambitions to be subserved by "playing politics" in the mayor's office; he does not seek the office for "what there is in it."

THE CONSTANTINE VERDICT.

The verdict of the twelve men who tried the murderer, Constantine, is a striking illustration of the unwilling-ness of the present day jury to send a man to the gallows. If the jurors did not swear falsely when they were being examined not one of them had conscientious objections to capital punishment, and yet they refused to inflict it.

No juror had the slightest doubt of Constantine's guilt. There were no extenuating circumstances. He had, if possible, aggravated his guilt by trading his victim. It was the impression in the courtroom, and of those who had read the evidence, that the death penalty would be voted. But the murderer got a life sentence instead.

A majority of the jurors may have thought that Constantine ought to have been hanged. If so, they were ready enough to yield to a more merciful minority. They did not spend much time in trying to convert the minority, and probably would not have been successful if they had taken more time.

The escape of such a callous mur-derer as Constantine from the scaffold goes to show how absurd it is for Attorney General Bonaparte or anybody else to propose to rid society of the worst habitual criminals by hanging them.—Chicago Tribune.

What can be done with four substantial walls was demonstrated by the Woman's club, whose magnificent club house—one feels like calling it club home—was opened last night with a brilliant reception. It is an object lesson, one that will do much to promote emulation.

That would not have been very wise for the Republican candidate for governor to enter a joint debate with the Democratic candidate for commissioner of agriculture. Senator Newman could have promised or asserted anything, while A. E. Willson would have been bound by the obligations and dignity of his position.

RIVER NEWS

The river continues to fall rapidly and if the fall continues much longer
the big sand bar will begin to peep out of the water. The low water is causing serious inconvenience to boats. Several are already tied up at the bank and they will soon be joined by a number of others unless conditions improve pretty soon.

The big towboat Sprague is tied up over at the island waiting for a higher stage of water before he can continue her trip up the river. The Sprague has a tow of 40 empty barges with her. She is the biggest towboat in the world and always attracts a lot of attention when she is at the wharf.

The gauge registered 7.4, a fall of 0.5 since yesterday.

The Chancy Lamb is waiting to go on the dry docks for a new rudder
and new smokestacks.

The Martha Henning will leave today for Cincinnati with a tow of eight barges.

An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to get the steamer J. B.
Richardson on the dry docks. The pumps failed to work properly, and just as the steamer was leaving the water and the workmen were forced to let her back. The pumps will be repaired and the steamer gotten out probably today.

Captain B. Berryman will be at her trip down the Mississippi as an escort to the president's party.

The towboat Fulton passed up the Ohio yesterday with a tow of seventeen barges for Louisville.

The Dick Fowler got out for Cairo

the next 36 hours. At Paducah and Cairo, will continue falling during the next two days.

The Tennessee, at Florence, will rise during the next 36 hours. At Johnsonville, not much change during the next 36 hours; then probably rise.

The Mississippi, from below St.
Louis to above Cairo, not much change during the next 36 hours.

Two Sides to the Question.

The agent of the building did not like the looks of the man who wanted to rent the second floor flat.

"We require the payment of the rental monthly in advance, of course,"
he said.

"That will be all right," answered
the man. "The rooms suit me, and I am willing to pay a year in advance,
if necessary."

"You don't object to music, perhaps? There's a piano on the first floor and a harp and zither on the third."

"No objection to that. I am fond of all kinds of music."

"We don't take renters who have children, you know."

"We haven't any. My family consists of my wife, myself and a grown son."

"Also we require the best of references."

"Here they are."

"The agent looked at them and handed them back."

"They are alright. I'll have to let you in. You are fortunate, Mr.
Spoonoo, in getting the apartment at this particular time. By order of Mr. Hunka I have had all the rooms thoroughly—"

"Does old Hunka own this building?"

"Certainly. As I was saying—"

"Great Scott! The only object I have in moving is to get out of one of old Hunka's apartment houses. I wouldn't live here rent free!"

"No, thanks. I can find my way out without any assistance. Morning, sir."

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Woman's Club Reception.

The opening reception of the Woman's club last evening was a most brilliant and delightful occasion. The new club house is as charming in interior as the attractive exterior gives promise and last night smiled a most hospitable welcome through the pretty colonial doorway with its handsome electric lights. The club colors, green, gold and white, which are the combined colors of the two federated clubs, the Magazine and Delphic, are artistically carried out in the details of the finishing and furnishing of the rooms, and the same color motif was emphasized throughout in the decoration of the house last night.

In the assembly room, palms in jardiniere of green and yellow on pedestals were in effective relief against the white walls. Ferns were grouped in the windows and huge asparagus ferns added their feathery touch of beauty to the brilliantly lighted room. The dais where the piano stood was banked with palms and ferns. The executive board of the club received the guests in this room. The members present were: Mrs. James A. Rudy, president; Mrs. Elbridge Palmer, first vice president; Mrs. J. C. Flournoy, second vice president; Mrs. E. G. Boone, secretary; Mrs. Robert Becker Phillips, chairman finance; Mrs. I. D. Wilcox, chairman house committee; Mrs. Muscoe Burnett, chairman literary department; Mrs. George C. Wallace, philanthropic department; Miss Anna Webb, chairman art department; Miss Virginia Newell, chairman music department.

The library across the hall was a symphony in green and yellow. The room most attractive with its old mission library, furniture in green, was also brightly lighted by a green shaded electric. The tall colonial mantel was banked with golden rod, yellow daisies and ferns. An artistic rustic basket of green, filled with vivid nasturtiums, was in the center of the table and small bowls and vases in green with the nasturtium were about the room. On the quaint desk was a guest book for the visitors' names and above this desk hung the beautiful illuminated motto "What Is a Woman's Club?" the gift of Mrs. Edmund M. Post, third vice president of the State Federation.

Opening off the hall to the rear is a roomy porch with stone floor, this was effectively arranged as a Japanese tea garden last night. Big tubs of golden rod and palms and ferns gave a charming out-door effect which was softly lighted by a number of Japanese lanterns. Here in a pretty bower was the punch table presided over by Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, assisted by Mrs. Henry Rudy, Mrs. Edward Brighurst and Miss Faith Langstaff.

The dining room upstairs was especially attractive with its immense vases of yellow daisies and asparagus ferns and gardeners of ferns and palms effectively arranged about the room. The table had for the centerpiece a tall cut glass vase of yellow canna and ferns standing on a mirror; bowls of nasturtiums on smaller mirrors were at either end. The mirrors and edge of the table were outlined by fern leaves. Silver coffee urns and dainty bonbonnières of salted nuts added to charming setting of the table. Mrs. Jacob Wallerstein and Mrs. Frank Boyd poured the coffee and receiving in the dining room were: Mrs. John W. Keller, Mrs. D. M. Flournoy, Mrs. Hughes McKnight, Misses Josephine Bloomfield.

Mistress—"Norah, I told you to give that man with the hand organ a quarter to go down to the next block and grind his machine in front of Mrs. Upp's house—and he's out here on our sidewalk again." Norah—"Yis, mum. He says 'th' laddy in 'th' next block gave 'im half a dollar to come back here, mum.'"

Chicago Tribune.

"My dearest! And will you love me always?" "Not quite always, I can't. You forget I've eight hours' work at the office to do."—Svvet.

Sometimes a friend seems to be in need of everything you will stand for.

AN URGENT APPEAL FOR HELP.

Mary Bolling, Sadie Paxton, Blanche Hills, Jennie Gilson, Marjorie Scott, Sandwiches and light refreshments were served.

Across the hall the committee room made a pretty small reception room. This is furnished by the Retail Merchants' Association. The decorations were canna and dahlia.

A telegram from the state president, Mrs. Frances Simard Riker, of Harrodsburg, was read during the evening. It voiced: "Warm congratulations and ever continued good wishes. Though absent in body with you in spirit."

The rooms were crowded with guests during the evening and many beautiful costumes were in evidence. Governor Beckham and party who were expected to be present did not get in from Murray until 10 o'clock and were not able to be there.

A number of gifts have been made the club by interested members and outsiders. Among them are: Two handsome out-door electric lights for front doorway—Messrs. Foreman Bros., beautiful electrolite for library Mr. Joseph L. Friedman; grandfather's clock, Mr. J. L. Wolf; Woman's club motto Mrs. Edmund M. Post; picture for library Misses Morton; brass front door knocker from Canada Mrs. Robert Becker Phillips; club gavel, Mrs. Eli Boone; handsome ornament, Mr. Wallace Well; sofa pillow, Mrs. William Marble; table cover, Mrs. H. C. Overby; toilet articles for the two dressing rooms, Mr. Charles Kiger.

An orchestra played during the evening.

The very decided executive ability and talent of Mrs. I. D. Wilcox, who is the chairman of the house committee, is signally displayed in the completeness of the club house in all its finishing details. Her committee worked with spirit and unity. Especial praise must be given to the taste of Mrs. John W. Keller and Mrs. Charles Kiger who were in charge of the selection and arrangement of the furnishings and draperies.

TREES VOTE

ONE PRECINCT IN COUNTY SHOWS AMUSING SITUATION.

Vegetable Kingdom Apparently Holds Balance of Power Over Humans.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 24.—Commonwealth's Attorney R. B. Franklin today had issued a subpoena for George A. Newman, Jr., editor and publisher of the Louisville Herald, summoning him to appear before the Franklin grand jury at an early date. A subpoena duces tecum was issued to secure the sources of the information which led to the publication in the Louisville Herald of Saturday, September 14, of the story relating to the Bailey precinct. The subpoena will probably be served today.

It was charged in this story that in 1903 in the Bailey precinct of Franklin county trees, articles of clothing and plants were voted, and a greater majority, 219 votes, was returned for the Democrats than there were voters in the precinct. Nobody voted for the Republicans according to the returns as given by the Herald, and the following were among the names which appeared in the ballot stubs:

KELLOGG CALLS ALL TRUSTS BAD

Says Sherman Law is Sufficient to Suppress Combines.

Government Agent Declares All Monopolies Are Iniquitous and Must Be Curbed.

FREE COMMERCE IS NEEDED.

New York, Sept. 24.—Frank B. Kellogg, the "trust buster," who is probing the secrets of the Standard Oil company, says there are no good trusts and he believes the Sherman anti-trust act is sufficient to curb them. Speaking of the latter, he said:

"After having given the law a thorough study and analysis since its introduction, and more especially since its enactment, I feel assured that the Sherman anti-trust act, without amendment, is sufficient to accomplish what the government and the people demand—the dissolution of combinations in restraint of trade and the suppression of monopolies.

Freedom in Business Need.
"I have gone through various experiences in the corporation world and the business world generally, and am convinced that it is of the highest importance to the best interests and welfare of the people that all the avenues of trade and commerce should be kept open in order that individual enterprise, in no matter what branch of trade or commerce put forth, may be able, nay, allowed, to reach its highest development."

"Suppose corporations, through their large purchasing capacity," Mr. Kellogg was asked, "should reduce prices to the consumer; what then do you think of individual effort, which at best cannot reach out to any vast extent?"

"But we cannot make any such supposition," he replied. "Corporations do not reduce prices except for the purpose of freezing out some individual. And then when they get control up go the prices to a higher level than before, in order that lost profits may be recovered."

"Are there no good trusts or combinations of capital or individual?"

"I know of none. In fact, I might answer your question emphatically no. I am firmly of the opinion that no corporation or combination of individuals should be permitted to monopolize all branches of a great industry. For, if one industry may be monopolized, all of the industries of the country, nay, all of the industries of the entire world, might be combined into a gigantic trust, and then what would happen?"

Law Enough for Present.
"In what way can the Sherman act be improved?"

"That remains for time and the future. We have all we want at this time. We have 'busted' many trusts under the Sherman anti-trust law, and we will do so again. The present inquiry into the affairs of the Standard Oil company is being conducted under the Sherman law and we have succeeded in getting a bit of information that will be valuable to us."

"Trusts in restraint of trade must be not only curbed but broken up. I do believe that the American people are not willing to permit unlimited combination which tends to monopoly and which must result ultimately if unchecked, in absolute monopoly."

To Civilize the Tarahumares.

Enrique C. Cfeel, Mexico's richest man, and her ambassador to the United States, is the son of a Yankee storekeeper who went broke trying to do business with the shiftless Mexicans. When it came time for the boy to start out for himself, and the start was an early one, his father had only a handful of Mexican dollars to give him.

"Never mind," said Enrique, "I shall work, save and be rich."

Today he is worth $225,000,000, a far vaster sum in proportion to the wealth of Mexico than are the millions of Rockefeller in proportion to America's wealth.

As governor of the state of Chihuahua Senor Creel is undertaking what he regards as his greatest work—civilization of the Tarahumare Indians, a depraved tribe of snake-eaters. He secured from the federal government the grant of a million acres of land in the middle of the state, had houses built and moved the Indians out of their wretched burrows in the ground. Each Indian was given a piece of ground and he had to work it whether he liked or not.—Washington Post.

An American manufacturer has been telling a London interviewer that he considers the American boy a poor worker. Wonder whether he ever heard an American boy convincing his father that football outfit is a necessary of life. —Philadelphia North American.

Heavyweight Kitchen Folks.

"It will do you more good to smell food that is being cooked than it will to eat it after it is cooked," was the astonishing statement made by a local restaurant man.

"That is the reason why so many professional cooks are heavyweights. You never saw any one who became a chef and stayed at it any length of time but became fleshy. Cooks never eat to any great extent, except to taste the food at times while it is being cooked in order to see if it is done. It is the odor of the food in the kettles that makes them fat."

"The same will apply in the case of the housewife. Continuous work in the kitchen makes fleshy women and healthy women. Cooking is the healthiest occupation in the world."

CHAPTER VII.

CAPTAIN and Mrs. Kempt, with Sabina, had resided a week in the Matterhorn hotel before the two girls arrived there. They had gone direct to New York, and it required the seven days to find a flat that suited them, of which they were to take possession on the 1st of October. Then there were the lawyers to see, a great many business details to settle and an architect to consult. After leaving New York the girls spent a day at Haverstock, where Dorothy Amhurst bought a piece of land as shrewdly as if she had been in the real estate business all her life. After this transaction the girls drove to the station on the line connecting with the inclined railway and so, as Katherine remarked, were "wafted to the skies on flowery beds of ease," which she explained to her shocked companion was all right because it was a quotation from a hymn. When at last they reached their hotel, Katherine was in ecstasies.

"Isn't this heavenly?" she cried. "And, indeed, it ought to be, for I understand we are 3,000 feet higher than we were in New York, and even the skyscrapers can't compete with such an altitude."

The broad valley of the Hudson lay spread beneath them, stretching as far as the eye could see, shimmering in the thin, bluish veil of a summer evening, and miles away the river itself could be traced like a silver ribbon.

The gallant captain, who had been energetically browbeaten by his young daughter and threatened with divers pains and penalties should he fail to pay attention and take heed to instructions, had acquiesced himself with ecstasies in the selection of rooms for Dorothy and his daughter. The suit was situated in one corner of the huge caravansary, a large parlor occupying the angle, with windows on one side looking into the forest and on the other giving an extended view across the valley. The front room adjoining the parlor was to be Dorothy's very own, and the end room belonged to Katherine. He said, as long as she behaved herself. If Dorothy ever wished to evict her strenuous neighbor, all she had to do was to call upon the captain, and he would lead his aid, at which prospect Katherine tossed her head and said she would try the room for a week and if she didn't like it out Dorothy would have to go.

These followed days and nights of revelry—hops, concerts, entertainments of all sorts, with no more pretensions than on Saturday night, when the week-tired man from New York arrived in the afternoon to find temperature 20 degrees lower and the altitude very much higher than was the case in his busy office in the city. Katherine revelled in this round of excitement, and, indeed, so, in a milder way, did Dorothy. After the functions were over the girls enjoyed a comforting chat with one another in their drawing room, all windows open, and the moon shining down over the luminous valley, which it seemed to fill with mother of pearl dust.

Young J. K. Henderson of New York, having danced repeatedly with Katherine on Saturday night, unexpectedly turned up for the hop on the following Wednesday, when he again danced repeatedly with the same young girl. It being somewhat unusual for a keen business man to take a four hours' journey during an afternoon in the middle of the week and as a consequence arrive late at his office next morning, Dorothy began to wonder if a concrete formation, associated with the name of Prince Ivan Lermontoff of Russia, was strong enough to stand an energetic assault of this nature, supposing it were to be constantly repeated. It was after midnight on Wednesday when the two reached the corner parlor. Dorothy sat in a cane armchair, while Katherine threw herself into a rocking chair, laced her fingers behind her head and gazed through the open window at the misty infinity beyond. "Well," sighed Katherine, "this has been the most enjoyable evening I ever spent."

"Are you quite sure?" inquired her friend.

"Certainly. Shouldn't I know?"

Young J. K. Henderson danced repeatedly with Katherine.

government, and perhaps he might have enlightened me, although he has nothing to do with the navy, but I rather like to avoid Uncle Metgerne. He brought me up since I was a small boy and seems unnecessarily ashamed of the result. It is his son who is the attaché in St. Petersburg that I spoke to you about."

Dorothy ceased reading for a moment. "Metgerne, Metgerne," she said to herself. "Surely I know that name."

She laid down the book, pressed the electric button and unlocked the door. When the servant came, she said:

"He dances well, then?"

"Exquisitely."

"Better than Jack Lamont?"

"Well, now you mention him, I must confess Jack danced very creditably."

"I didn't know but you might have forgotten the price."

"No, I haven't exactly forgotten him, but—I do think he might have written to me."

"Oh, that's it, is it? Did he ask your permission to write?"

"Good gracious, no! We never talked of writing. Old red sandstone, rather, was our topic of conversation. Still he might have acknowledged receipt of the book."

"But the book was given to him in return for the one he presented to you."

"Yes, I suppose it was. I hadn't thought of that."

"Then again, Kate, Russian notions regarding writing to young ladies may differ from ours, or he may have fallen overboard or touched a live wire."

"Yes, there are many possibilities," murmured Katherine dreamily.

"It seems rather strange that Mr. Henderson should have time to come up here in the middle of the week."

"Why is it strange?" asked Katherine. "Mr. Henderson is not a clerk bound down to office hours. He's an official high up in one of the big insurance companies and gets a simply tremendous salary."

"Really? Does he talk as well as Jack Lamont did?"

"He talks less like the Troy Technical Institute and more like the Home Journal than poor Prince Jack did, and, then, he has a much greater sense of humor. When I told him that the oath of an insurance man should be 'bet your life' he laughed. Now, Jack would never have seen the point of that. Anyhow, the hour is too late and I am too sleepy to worry about young men or jokes either. Good night."

Next morning's mail brought Dorothy a bulky letter decorated with English stamps. She locked the door, tore open the envelope and found many sheets of thin paper bearing the heading of the Bluewater Club, Pall Mall.

"I am reminded of an old adage," she read, "to the effect that one should never cross a bridge before arriving at it. Since I bade goodbye to you up to this evening I have been plodding over a bridge that didn't exist, much to my own discomfort. You were with me when I received the message ordering me home to England, and I don't know whether or not I succeeded in suppressing all signs of my own perturbation, but we have in the navy now a man who does not hesitate to overturn a court martial, and so I feared a reopening of the Rock in the Baltic question, which might have meant the wrecking of my career. I had quite made up my mind, if the worst came to the worst, to go out west and become a cowboy, but a passenger with whom I became acquainted on the Entusias informed me, to my regret, that the cowboy is largely a being of the past, to be met with only in the writings of Stewart Edward White, Owen Wister and several other famous men whom he named. So you see I went across the ocean tolerably depressed, finding my present occupation threatened and my future uncertain."

"When I arrived in London, I took a room at this club, of which I have been a member for some years, and reported immediately at the admiralty. But there, in spite of all diligence on my part, I was quite unable to learn what was wanted of me. Of course I could have gone to my uncle, who is in the

If some man aching for deathless fame will devise a bill for government regulation of candy, he will get it—both fame and candy. A legislative prohibition against a charge of more than a cent a stick would be a sweet boon. To be sure, some candy costs more than a cent a stick to make; still, if the dear peepul want a thing, this is their country, and why shouldn't they be allowed to have it?—Brooklyn Eagle.

Another preacher has given up the work to solicit life insurance because the pastoral salary in these days of high cost of living would not insure existence. It is not a cheerful commentary on latter-day Christianity but is probably a sign of the times.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A little child was dying where the light grew dim, one day. The bedclothes were lying on the floor.

She looked up at her father and she unto him did say:

"Please, father, don't beat mother any more."

Don't take your wooden leg off when I'm lying 'neath the ground. Asleep away out yonder, cold and dead.

For some day you might break it, as you try to hop around. And with it pound poor mother on the head."

Father, don't beat mother. With your peg leg any more. When, at night, she greets you. At our little cabin door; Father keep your peg on. After I am dead and gone; Be kind to dear old mother, for You know she isn't strong.

The father knelt beside her there. He put his leg away. And down his furrowed cheeks the tears did roll:

"Oh, darling, I'll remember," he unto the child did say. As in his arms his dear one he did hold.

The mother stood and listened, and her heart was very sad. She had a beefsteak fastened on one eye;

Be kind and gentle to her," said the child, "remember, dad. That raw meat it has risen very high."

CHORUS:
Father, don't beat mother, etc.

That night beside their dear one they did linger all alone.

The peg leg it was laid across a chair. The joy had all departed from. That happy little home, No more would childish laughter echo there.

The sobbing mother took the beefsteak from her damaged eye. The saddened father unto her his wooden leg did bring.

She put it in the stove, and while with it the steak did fry.

The spirit of the child did hear them, as they ate it, sing:

CHORUS:
Father won't beat mother. With his peg leg any more. When she comes to greet him. At their little cottage door; Father's peg will never. More cause mother dear to weep. They will now be happy, and. They'll save a lot on meat.

Made the Excuse.
There is a story of a clergyman who had taken temporary duty for a friend, and who had the ill luck to injure his false teeth during the week. The plate was sent to the dentist's for repairs, a faithful assurance being given that it should be duly returned by Sunday's post, but the dentist, at the post proved faithless.

With the assistance of the clerk the clergyman managed to stumble through the prayers, but felt that it would be useless to attempt to preach. He therefore instructed the clerk to "make some excuse for him and dismiss the congregation." But his feelings may be better imagined than described when, in the seclusion of the vestry, he overheard the clerk, in impressive tones, thus deliver the "excuse."

"Parson's very sorry, but it is his misfortune to be obliged to wear a set of artificial teeth. They busted last Wednesday, and he ain't got them back from London today, as he was promised. I've helped him all I could through the service, but I can't do no more for him; 'tistn' any use."

NOT A DEMOCRAT

SAYS MATTHEW C. BUTLER OF MR. BRYAN.

Declares Nebraska's Policies Are
Pure Populism—Will Be Slump
In South Vote.

Washington, Sept. 24.—"If Bryan is a Democrat I am not," said former Senator Matthew C. Butler, of South Carolina. "Mr. Bryan has injected too much populism and other things into the Democratic party. This talk of government ownership of railways, initiative and referendum, and the like, have no business in the talk of Democracy, for it is no more Democracy than other Populist and Socialistic doctrines. If Bryan is nominated and the Republicans select some strong, conservative man, there will certainly be a slump in the south in favor of the Republicans if the nominee is Taft or Hughes, or any other strong man who is known as a conservative.

"If I were to pick the two candidates for the Republicans and the Democrats I would pick Senator Eugene Hale, of Maine, and Gray of Delaware. There is no man in the United States more competent to manage the affairs of this government than Senator Hale.

"While it may seem extraordinary,
I insist that the Republicans could pick no more able man than Hale for the presidential nominee, but of course, I know they will not do it.
Neither do I believe the Democrats will select Gray for their candidate.
But if they nominate Bryan I will vote for Taft or whoever else, of a conservative type, the Republicans
may select as their nominee."

GREENHALG WAS IN FLAMES WHEN ASSISTANT CAME

"Bill" Greenhalg, a well known Illinois Central car repairer, came near being fatally burned inside a refrigerator car in the Illinois Central car repairing yards yesterday afternoon. But for his presence of mind in tearing away his clothing,
and the quick action of Henry Swafford, his assistant, he might have been more seriously burned. As it is he is suffering from a badly scorched back, and the loss of a suit of overalls.

Greenhalg was sent into the car to put in some bolts. It was dark inside the big car and he carried an oil torch. The torch was placed by his side, and Greenhalg sat down to get closer to his work, the bolts being in the bottom of the car. Suddenly he began to feel uncomfortably warm,
and looking around saw the cause.

The torch had become too hot and the bottom melted out. Greenhalg's trousers and the bottom of his jacket had absorbed a great deal of the oil
as it ran over the floor and had ignited.

The car repairer let out a whoop loud enough to assure Swafford that something unusual was going on inside, and leaving his place under the outside of the car, he ran to Green-halg's assistance. Greenhalg was a human torch, but making desperate efforts to free himself from his burning garments. A bucket of water was secured and thrown on the burning man and soon the flames were beaten out. Greenhalg's shirt was burned slightly, but the flame never reached his skin. He was at work again this morning.

Skates and Fiddler.

There was a good story told of Dr.
Joachim when he was in Hanover.
During the winter there was a great deal of skating going on, of which he had a good view from his window. It looked so easy and everybody looked so happy that he thought he would have a try. Accordingly he strolled down and was soon pounced upon by the ice cleaner, who asked him if he wished to skate. "I have never tried yet," Joachim replied. "I will show you, Herr Hofconcertmeister," the man said, screwing on a pair of skates.
So! Now stand up. Now slide your right foot so, and the other so, and then off!" Joachim slid his right foot and prepared for the left, but before he had righted himself he was indeed
"off," and sprawling on the ice. "Ja, ja ja!" the man exclaimed, as he raised the famous violinist, "it is not quite so easy as playing the fiddle."

IN presenting the "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe to our customers, we do so with the conviction that it is the best for the prices of $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 of any woman's shoe on the market today. It is striking in style, faultless in fit and of moderate price, three points which cannot but appeal to every woman. Another strong point is the exceptional range of styles,
—for not only is the proper style afforded for each and every occasion, but each style is divided and sub-divided by variations of design and material until the possibilities for choice are practically limitless. The new Autumn styles present all the latest innovations, with all the little details of finish and workmanship carried to a degree of perfection that makes their resemblance to the high priced custom products more marked than ever.
